

Objective

Project pH is a progressive marketing firm that specializes in unique solutions for our clients. It was started as a way to connect talented artistic professionals with small business owners to create a mutually beneficial relationship. We believe in producing a quality product, and feel that it is the path to maximizing our benefit to society. We will consider any project whether large or small.

Our specialties vary person to person, allowing for an unprecedented level of professional depth and creativity. Every client of ours gets a customized team of specialists to help find solutions in today's market. Our team will help you to expand your business in the direction that it most needs.

We want to help build a stronger society in conjunction with a more stable economic foundation. While great forces move to make that a reality, it is now more important than ever that the homegrown business of this country remain competitively viable against their larger, corporate, counterparts. There are more important things in this world than the Machiavellian pursuit of the bottom line, and like a great forest they take time to grow into maturity and yet can be wiped out in an instant. We believe in the pursuit of individual happiness and feel that can only be achieved through the cultivation of a community based upon Peace and Honesty.
